Bobby Schindler

Bobby was living in Florida as a teacher with his family when his life took a dramatic turn. In February 1990 his sister Terri suddenly collapsed and was left with a profound brain injury. Terri's estranged husband sought court permission to starve and dehydrate her to death. His wish was eventually granted. Following Terri's tragic death on March 31, 2005, Bobby became a full-time prolife and disability rights advocate. He has appeared on numerous national television and radio programs. He has also testified before several state legislatures, addressed Members of Parliament in Canada and Australia concerning the protection of the medically vulnerable. He and his family authored the book A Life That Matters regarding their struggle to care for Terri.
